

The Inquisitive Robot

• its all about experience •

The inquisitive robot is a fast growing solo travel blog bringing unique experiences from all over the world. Be it food, places to visit, things to see, the blog curates off beat ideas for travelers who can see themselves immersing into the culture and people as they read through it. Thus forming a meaningful and mindful bond with the readers.

The goal of my blog is to give a different perspective about the countries. I visit and to introspect into doing what really helps in breaking the monotony of corporate lives.

Manali Mane

I am an Indian travel blogger currently based in Ireland.

I am all about experiences when it comes to traveling.

I started blogging two years ago and have not looked back since.

I have worked with some interesting brands like Jord Watches, Yaan tours, Cohune Palm resorts and many more with whom I have long lasting relationship still.

I believe in building bond with people I work with and places I go with which reflects in my content and connects with full-time employees, students and adventure travelers just like me.
